SMITH GOT THE CALL.
THE PODUNK BANNER KNEW WHO IT SHOULD SUPPORT.

Jenkins Thought He Had It on His Side
In the Race For the County Treasurership, but For Obvious Reasons Jenkins
Was Grossly Mistaken.

"My name is Jenkins—William A. Jenkins," said the editor in the editorial section of the "Podunk Banner."

"Happy to know you, sir," said the editor of the "Banner," fitting a board over the hole in the office chair and handing it to

"Thanks, awfully. I was up in this end of the county and thought I would call.
Always call on newspaper boys, you know."

"That's right, Mr. Jenkins. How's everything?"

"Good, never better. You see I'm a candidate for county treasurer this fall and I'm out feeling the public pulse."

"Good, And how do you feel?"

"Good, just like. By the way, your paper is $1 a copy. I believe."

"Well, I'll give you a copy down for a year and here's the money."

"Thank you. I'll give you a receipt."

"Good, I understand you have no candidate for treasurer in your end of the county."

"Not that I know of."

"Good, I suppose you give me your valuable support? You can't go back on an old subscriber, you know."

"Jenkins had been a subscriber just enough and the editor handed him the hearty support of the "Banner."

"Is this the office of the "Podunk Banner?" asked the editor as he stopped just inside of the sanctum door and looked about in a retrair way.

"This is the office of the "Banner."

"I am the editor of the "Podunk Banner," replied the editor.

"What's that?"

"The "Podunk Banner," John Jenkins."

"John Jenkins? I've heard of him. I suppose he is a socialist or something."

"No, I'm thinking some of running for county treasurer, subject."

"Five dollars for a regular announcement is what I charge," said the editor.

"Well, I will fit up right again, and then send you my paper for you to put in the banner."

"Good, when I send up a bill for an other year, subscription to each. I know you are a good man."

"All right, Mr. Smith. I'll give you a subscription a prominent place, and also mention your candidacy in my local editorial."

"Thank you. I'll get the office I'll see to it that you get good share of the county print."

"Thank you, Mr. Smith."

"Not at all. Good day."

"Good day. Come again."

"Thinks."

Ohio Farmer's Secret of the Best Way

We would not put in any foundation barn we would make a square silo, put the girts on round and round, spacing a little more as they approached the top,

where they can be much more dense,
so as to hold the weight of the grain
when it is ripe. The top is made

[EVENING.]
About the telegraph all along the beach
We sat alone till the last vestige of light or sound that savored of the world:
Above us Night her sable wings wide,
Before us stretched the wet gray sand-kissed wave,
With a muffled rush and ripple, like a song.
Softly crooned by a mother all night long,
Then sank heavily with a groan of death.
A few hours later saw a silver well
Of shifting clouds, shedding their radiance pale
Upon the waters and lowlying land.
And then the sun rose, bright and bold,
Wise was the dark and still-only the undante
Of the rising sun was heard, and we were quite alone.

He had looked and looked in silence and felt the wind's caress,

Then lowered our tons with the waves, and talked of happiness.

AROUND THE TOWN.

I see by the Boston papers that Col. Lovell has decided, owing to the demands of a constantly increasing business, to withdraw from the political arena, and can almost assure you that the coming of things, their nature, let your interests be what they may, will bring you good fortune.

While we have an efficient corps of regular contributors, there is more or less chance of things, their nature, let your interests be what they may, will bring you good fortune.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT WEMYOUTH, MASS., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 9, 1898.

We are in receipt of an article for publication signed "Townsmen" complaining that it is a disgrace to have drunken men driving through our streets in the day time. We agree with the writer, but then we are not in the position of police and this criticism would really hold good unless it had such signatures as "Townsmen," "Citizen," "Tax-Payer," etc., do not count with us unless backed by a genuine and known name. It is a man's right to be in a compliant against the "well-known offenders and miscreants" and no doubt the officers would see the law enforced.

It becomes a pretty serious matter to take a man after dark, for if some foolishly scores don't dash into the chances are that some inexperienced biter will lose control of his wheel and run you down, and either cause your horse to run away or damage your carriage to some extent.

There are other towns than Salem, says that "among no other class of people in the world is there so much ignorance of the law, the road as among wheelmen. The "well-known offenders and miscreants" and no doubt the officers would see the law enforced.

The stock of the Quincy and Boston Railways Company is evidently a favorite with conservative investors. Last Saturday afternoon, a share of stock was sold for $100, a share which price is $10 a share more than it sold for at auction a few months ago.

The dedication of the Foggy Memorial Hall next Wednesday will be an event of unusual interest to Weymouthians for the very reason that it is the first public building in town constructed entirely of native stone.

The owner of the quarry deserves the thanks of the citizens for his generosity in furnishing the material at cost.

I am heartily in sympathy with the High School students who work to save enough money for the new building and trust that they will meet with deserved success in their endeavors.

New Time Table on the B. & W. S. By

The new time table on the Braintree and Weymouth Street Railway went into effect Wednesday. The only change in the running time between here and Braintree is the discontinuation of the 10:15 p. m. car for that place. There is also a change on the South Weymouth and the line. At certain times in the day the cars run hourly instead of half hourly as formerly.

Reminiscences.

In answer to inquiring friends, the writer of this article will state that the death of Mrs. John Cushing, grandmother of Mrs. George W. Leavitt who resides on Broad street, occurred June 21st, 1841. At that time the only passenger train from Weymouth to Boston was the passenger and freight packet, of which there were three, the "Volant," "Washington" and "Sarah-Jane" who made regular trips as far as New Haven. On one of these "Volant" trips of Peleg's Island was struck by a very sudden squall and capsized, and by the moving of heavy freight on deck the vessel remained in that position.

As quickly as possible he was sent to the cabin, life was extinct. All other passengers were with much difficulty rescued.

The last military muster on the so-called "Col. Minot's Hill" was in the fall of 1833 or 1835.

F. H. T.

From a Weymouth Private.

Camp Dalton, So. Framingham, Mass.

In Camp, Sept. 6th, 1898.

Messrs. Editors:

The tenth week of our stay in Camp Dalton will be ended Thursday and seems to be some prospect of an early departure for a camp located more to the west. Present dispatches have informed us that the 10th week of October will be spent at Camp Meade, Middleboro. But at this writing nothing official has been given out from regimental headquarters regarding such a move. Definite orders will be received with pleasure. The desire of the regiment is to remain here a short time and then move to a camp located more to the west. We hope to be relieved the monotony.

Besides we have told so many that the regiment would never leave this state that we will not be surprised if the regiment is sent to some other state.

As they finally marched onto the field in the early morning hours, each company was given a hearty round of cheers. They were then brought over to the mess-houses where each of our companies furnished breakfast to about thirty-five. Their varied experiences were then gone to and listened to with great interest by our boys.

We lost our first command today by death of Capt. E. L. French, of the 10th Mass., sick ten days with typhoid fever and at last succumbed. We have been extremely fortunate in having very little sickness.

Overcoats are all ready to be issued as soon as the weather becomes cooler. There has been no need of them during the last week as the weather has been very warm.

Colonel Whitney, who was quite seriously ill, has now recovered and is again up and about.

The preparations are completed for the arrival of the 1st Heavy Artillery which is expected in about a week. The 2nd Mass. is also being held to be mustered out as soon as the men are fully recuperated.

All of the R. boys are well and as happy as possible. Quite a number of friends from Weymouth have visited us during the last few weeks and we would always be pleased to have others come if it is necessary.

The feature of the day, dress parade, is held at about 6 o'clock and is well worth seeing. Any and all from Weymouth will receive a hearty welcome.

Yours truly,

F. E. B.

The State Department has given over to the Ladies' Home Journal for publication its "Royal Letters" addressed to the President of the United States by Queen Victoria, Prince Albert, Prince Wales, Napoleon III and Emperor William I of Germany. Napoleon announces such events as his marriage to Marie Louise; the birth of his son, the King of Rome; his return to the throne of France from exile; the accession of Louis Philippe to the throne of England in 1830; her marriage to Prince Albert; the birth of the Prince of Wales; the death of the Prince Consort; and the famous letter thanking President McKinley for his congratulations on her Diamond Wedding. All these letters will be presented in the October number of the magazine.

A Model City.

Mr. Editor: Returning after a vacation to one's home and familiar work, it is natural perhaps to desire to share with others in the interest of the town.

I want to ask you for a little space in your columns to refer to a model municipality, in which it was my fortune to spend a part of my vacation, a little city in Connecticut.

It is a model in this respect, the unselfish loyalty of its citizens to the interests of the city.

May I say, that ever since I have been a citizen of Weymouth, I have been pained by the apparent desire of every one to make as much as possible of the town.

The idea in Weymouth seems to be, that the office holding is an opportunity to serve oneself not to serve the people. Our town book reveals the fact that at least one thought in the minds of our town officials is "What's in it for me?"

Now in this particular city I found that an intense jealousy for the welfare of the town possessed all, to such an extent is this true that the town officials serve out pay. The Mayor, the Commissioner, the Board of Health, the various Commissions, receive no compensation.

The Board of Health has enacted and enforce a most stringent set of rules, by means of which liberty of action is much restrained, but also the rate of mortality in the town is high.

The citizens find some of these rules very irksome, yet they submit to them willingly, because they perceive their value to the city. At the suggestion of this Board they have just remodeled their High School building at the expense of many thousands of dollars.

The President of the Board told me of the anxious days and the sleepless nights he had passed in devising and enforcing these laws, entirely without compensation thereto.

This year we have had our electric light plant and its lights cost about $30,000 per year. The Commissioners pride themselves upon the low rate at which they furnish light to the city and serve without pay. The Superintendent of the works costs $3,000 per year, for his services above and beyond the pay of his office, and the city has given him a full salary and talents in inventing machinery and economic devices is freely used by city.

He has discovered a new way to economically coal, and more than this, every coal is burned, thus keeping a check upon the dealer who supplies the coal, and encouraging the fireman to be as economical as possible in the use of coal. A daily record is kept of the cost of burning and an effort made to reduce the cost of fuel.

The citizens of Weymouth have been greatly pleased with the new system.

OLD FOLKS REUNION.

Union Church Scene of Merry Gathering.

Dinner, Concert and Speeches.

The Old Folks Association of South Weymouth held their fifth annual reunion and banquet at the Union Congregational Church, South Weymouth, yesterday. Old people were present from Mansfield, Scituate and Wellesley.

The able executive committee Messrs. H. Reed, H. J. Joy, Alvin Raynor, George L. Lovell, and others arranged for the members early in the day and at the dinner hour, twice twelve o'clock, one hundred and twenty-five sat down to an inviting repast prepared under the skillful direction of Mrs. Forrest Torrey and her able corps of assistants.

In the afternoon the exercises opened in the auditorium with a reading of the records by the secretary, H. J. Joy, followed by a speech by the president. The meeting was opened by the members early in the day and at the dinner hour, twice twelve o'clock, one hundred and twenty-five sat down to an inviting repast prepared under the skillful direction of Mrs. Forrest Torrey and her able corps of assistants.

It was a great day at the old folks' home.

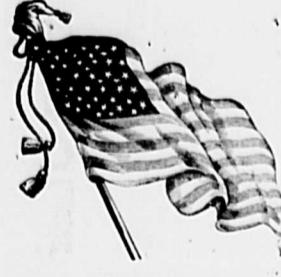

If you happen to be in good spirits when riding on your electric car in the morning and feel tempted to make the conductor happy by telling him he is the best conductor on the road, please "don't." Many years ago a conductor on an electric road was favored with a similar compliment and said, to relate, "I took the road."

Correspondence and news of events are submitted from all readers of the Gazette. Every one knows of some interesting facts or happenings that others would like to read about.

While we have sufficient copies of regular contributions there is much of interest that in the nature of things, cannot get. Let your interest in our local paper and pride in your town lead you to add in making the Gazette more bright and newsworthy.

ENTERED AT THE POST OFFICE AT WEYMOUTH, MASS., AS SECOND-CLASS MATTER.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 23, 1898.

If you have never read the ads before in this paper read them this week and then visit our home stores. Weymouth merchants are alive to Weymouth's wants and can find what you want right at home.

The Peace Commission to Paris and the change in Ambassador to London have been adjusted without drawing on Massachusetts for its most excellent Governor and the people will have an opportunity in November to roll up another big majority for Wolcott.

Cad. Hay who landed from Europe yesterday and will shortly enter upon his duties as secretary of state has early sounded the key note for a new use for our navy and a possible contest with another foreign nation. Turkey must settle the dispute as it is hardly probable that the demand of the United States or took into the muzzles of our guns.

Whatever else you do, don't forget the caucuses next Monday and Tuesday nights Democratic in Engine Hall, East Weymouth Monday night, and Republican in Oldfields Open House, East Weymouth Tuesday night.

The business of the season will be mapped out at the caucuses and a short but active campaign will follow.

The law forbidding street railway companies from issuing free passes to town officials and members of their families and also that they will be obliged to pay their fare on the cars. The result will be that different towns will have to bear the expense as it is hardly probable that town officials will pay their own fare while on the town's business.
